What is a family hub?

A family hub is a place where children, young people and their families can go when in need of help and support.

The people working in the family hub will work in partnership with you and your community. They will help you find and get help from different services in the area and will be able to give you information, advice and support.

Who can access a family hub?

There will be a range of services available. Some will be available only to those who have the greatest needs but there will also be services available to any family, child or young person who needs them (for example baby health clinics and adult education classes).

Examples of services offered:

- Support for young people aged 11 to 19 (targeted youth support work)
- Family support which may be offered within the home
- Support to children with special educational needs and their families
- A range of child and family health activities including baby wellbeing clinic and C-Card distribution points
- Parenting support
- Support with managing finances and getting back into work or training

How do I get help from a family hub?

Getting help from a family hub is simple, you can walk-in during opening times which will be widely publicised; you can telephone; or a professional person can refer you. Wherever you live in the city, you will be able to get help from one of our eight family hubs.

Most of the workers who provide support as part of a family hub will also work in other buildings across the city. To support our partnership working, this might be in a community centre, school or health clinic for example.

If you are unable to get to a family hub building, you will be able to get support in your own home or in the local community.

Some examples of the types of situations that the family hub service could offer help with:

“ I'm struggling with my seven year old son's behaviour, he seems to be having regular temper tantrums which I am worried about because he sometimes throws himself on the floor. I need help for me to help him. ”

The family hub will be able to support families and offer practical advice on positive parenting, looking at causes of a child's behaviour, encouraging desirable behaviour and developing strong family relationships.

The family hub will provide family support which may include practical help looking at routines, direct work with the child around his emotional wellbeing and parenting support for mum.

“ I have recently separated from my partner who used to drink too much and would become aggressive towards me. Since my partner has moved out my three year old son (who was toilet trained) has started to have accidents particularly at night time and I'm getting really stressed. What can the family hub do to help me? ”

“ I've noticed that my 16 year old daughter is maybe a little quieter than normal. When I asked her about it, she eventually told me she was feeling pressured by her friends to have sex for the first time with her boyfriend. What help could I get from a family hub? ”

The family hub could arrange for a youth worker to meet her and over a few sessions work through healthy relationships and talk to her about the C-Card scheme (safe sex support).
