

Who we are

Culture Coventry is an Alternative Education Provider with a focus on supporting neuro-divergent young people. Based in the heart of the city, our courses are delivered in the digital media studios at The Herbert Art Gallery & Museum. Our programme is designed to empower learners to express themselves, to play together and develop work skills in the process. Our venue is both an inspiring and quiet space to learn, with small groups and differentiation to suit all abilities.

What we offer

We created a mini college within The Herbert Museum & Art Gallery. We're a smaller campus than a big college which enables easier transition from school to next steps. We recognize that neurodiverse people have great problem solving skills and are inspired by creative challenges.

Creating opportunities for learners to be off site and independently interacting with new people, both neurotypical and neuro diverse, helps them see beyond their current school life.

Student Outcomes

1. Prepare challenging young people for further education, the workplace or volunteering
2. Using creativity and cultural engagement to develop skills, confidence, experience and qualifications.
3. Offer a range of vocational courses to support positive next steps and portfolio building
